PROFILE

Previously based in the UK, I am an Australian/British, queer, gender non confirming filmmaker, dedicated to delivering visually unique and emotionally impactful LGBTQ+ stories to audiences. I possess a clear visual aesthetic, incorporating long tracking shots, tableau work, and viscerally affecting montage set-pieces. As a working actor, I am capable of extracting organic and resonant performances from my players, and I lead cast and crew with compassion and encouragement, so as to motivate my teams in producing excellent, efficient work.

To whom it may concern.

My name is Leon Lopez and I am a TV and film director working in the UK. TV credits include a host of soap operas in the UK including Coronation Street and Emmerdale for ITV as well as dramas including Death in Paradise for the BBC and Midsomer Murders for ITV. I also run my own independent production company Brown Boy Productions.

I have had the pleasure of knowing Mitchell Marion for many years. He has crewed for several of my own film projects, working on both documentary and narrative film. I have also seen him in action as a director when I was honoured to be invited as an actor onto the set of his first film G O'clock and it was inspiring to see how he approached directing his own work.

Every time I have worked with Mitchell, I have been nothing but impressed by his skill and work ethic. He is both hard working as well as talented. As a crew member he goes above and beyond and as a director his vision and ability to connect with both actors and crew are highly commendable. On set he is a joy to be around, he works excellently in a team and is tirelessly motivated.

I hope to work with him again in the future and I would recommend him to any production.

Yours sincerely,

Leon Lopez

Re: Mitch Marion

I've known Mitch for several years now, ever since we released his first short film G O'CLOCK. While this was a cautionary tale, the film did not shy away from its sexuality, and delivered a subtle but effective message. The film demonstrated Mitch's ability as a filmmaker to beautifully layer short form content to captivate and entertain his audience.

Mitch invited my input on his next project THE SUIT WEARETH THE MAN, a much more ambitious project. I gave a little feedback on the script, but in all honesty, it was pretty much there when I read it, and I provided some more feedback as the editing of the short film progressed. Mitch listens to feedback, he weighs it up and utilises what is important for the project. He isn't precious, but he also knows what he's doing and his vision is sound.

Unfortunately, THE SUIT WEARETH THE MAN made its debut during the age of covid, which denied the film many of the opportunities that it would have had otherwise. Despite this, TSWTM screened at almost double the number of festivals around the world as G O'LOCK. We will be releasing the film in the UK later this year and I am confident it will receive a great reception here.

Mitch works extremely well with actors, and he has an excellent aesthetic and cinematic eye. I wouldn't hesitate to work with him on another project. He has skill and talent; I hope you will give him the opportunity to demonstrate it.

Yours Faithfully,
